Notebook 2.2 – The nature of the illusion and the perception of the earth’s different realities.

The geocentric, heliocentric, geospheric, noospheric earth... How to get everyone to agree ?

(We invite the reader to consult the LEOdico on the difference between dimension and density)

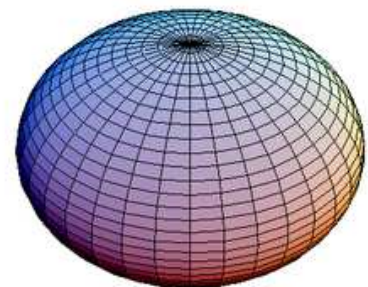

We have just watched the new videos of Roch Saüquière and of Allan Duke:

- <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=dk0yFOOHZgI>
- <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=0y1IkTlx9k>
- https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=0zh_4fCN-ig

Would these two speakers have understood that it was futile to search for proves of the flat, hollow or round earth theories or to search for responses to the illusions in the outer world, this being itself an illusion? Would they start asking themselves the right questions?

It seems that Allan Duke having pushed his investigations in the “right direction” by searching for information in his inner Being, could have discovered the secret of longevity! But based on his own claims, why has he not yet therefore applied this knowledge?

We know pertinently that none of those theories about the earth are verifiable but we have the intuition that all of them have their sense. We are going to therefore attempt ourselves to find the right question to ask.

Question to our inner Self :

Could we “receive” the understanding and visualization of the earth as seen from the 4th density ?

For the human spirit of the 3rd density it is not possible to have an overview of the earth for no matter what he sees it will not be the reality. Conditioned to only see a certain frequency, his perception therefore finds itself limited.

Remember that the 4th density opens the consciousness to the simultaneous existence of all the possibilities. The reality thus perceived by the consciousness of the individual will be according to the density, in which the spirit of the observer “evolves or navigates”.

If the spirit transports itself for example into the 2nd density and if it has the opportunity to contemplate the earth, it sees it flat simply because it is incapable of perceiving volume or depth of field and all the frequencies of the dimension that constitute it.

If this same consciousness transported to the 3rd density could see the earth in its entirety, it would actually see the physical envelope of the earth as a slightly oblate spherical form that moves itself through the universe. The sphere being the geometric form most adapted to moving among electric, magnetic, plasmatic and other currents that constitute the universe. Nevertheless, such as you see it, you will do nothing but delude yourself because you would only perceive its primary appearance. And as you already know, appearances are deceiving. You can not see or even perceive it in its total reality.

But a 4th density consciousness (this is to say with a 5th dimensional awareness) would see the planet earth in its totality. It would therefore simultaneously see the different geometric and physical configurations in relation with the density frequency that it is exploring. In the 4th density this consciousness gains a more enlarged and global vision.

As you implied in your question, one cannot speak of the earth while considering only its visible geometric aspect. Observed by beings of a superior density, the planet earth would resemble a mass of energy, in which the smallest part would be materialized and the largest proportion would be non-materialized.

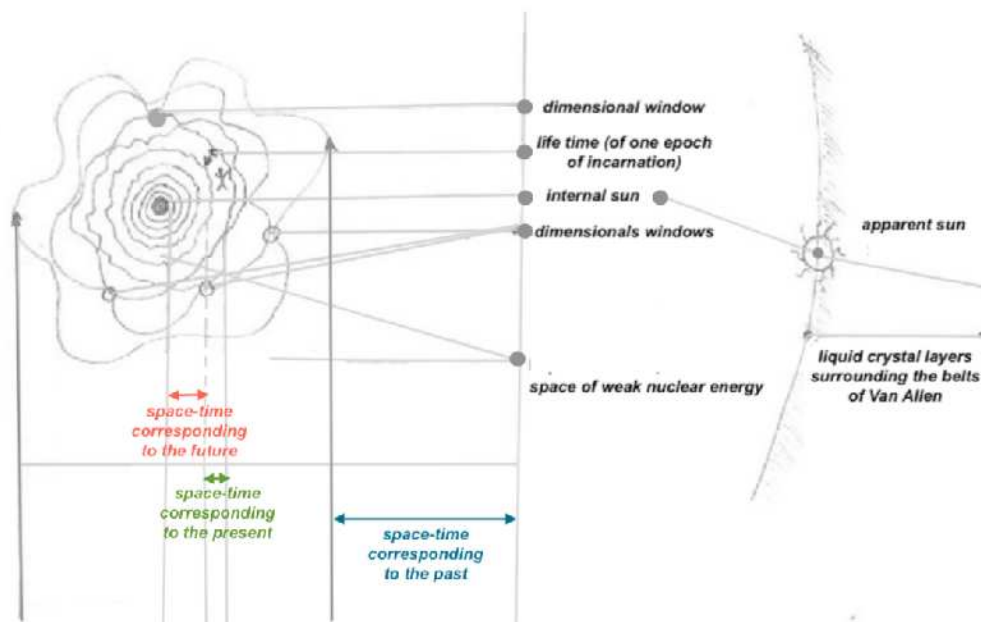

Its diameter would be 5-6 times superior to what the human eye of the 3rd density perceives. The earth perpetually changes in size, density, material and non-material configuration, which therefore exceeds human comprehension. It would bear a resemblance to the energetic configuration, as observed by man, of any star in the cosmos.

The human consciousness with its limitation due to its erroneous perceptions of space-time and its beliefs forged “as hard as iron”, can only perceive the “visible” aspect of the earth. This is the “photonic or luciferian” illusion, such as it appears in one of its multiple present moments, which expresses itself precisely the way you perceive it today.

This visible aspect is made tangible by the photons (the visible light), which are emitted by what you consider to be the apparent layer of the earth entity.

You could therefore imagine that the earth possesses different geometries perpetually in movement, such as superposed concentric circles of instable thickness in constant expansion toward the exterior.

Intuitive image of the « different present moments » that reign on planet earth

But the earth is not only that.

Beyond its visible aspect, it also constitutes an entity that possesses its own consciousness that houses several densities and a multitude of dimensions, of which the most part are invisible not only to the naked eye but also to “three-dimensional” technology of the current humanity.

As you know, the planet (therefore the life on earth) simultaneously exists in your past and in your future. But the past and the future are also themselves only illusions arising from your limited perceptions. So in order to perceive the earth in its reality, you would need to ignore the illusion of space-time specific to man.

To understand we are therefore going to use the metaphor of the onion.

When you hold an onion in the hand it is real “in the present moment”. It is an onion-entity that is composed of different onion layers. Just as the earth-entity would be dressed up in several layers of cloths, the layers of clothing or the layers of the onion would represent different space-times or vibrational frequencies.

In reality the geometry of the earth contains in itself all the space-times necessary for the cycles of incarnation of its inhabitants. Just like the onion that contains all the necessary cellular potential for its growth in its genetic, the earth harbors all the potential of the souls that incarnate, are born and die progressively throughout its growth !

How is this possible ?

Let's imagine that each human is the core "inhabiting" a cell of an onion layer. The cell would represent its bubble of perception. The ensemble of the cells of the same layer would include the individuals incarnated at a given epoch, in the space-time or a "present" corresponding to their reality.

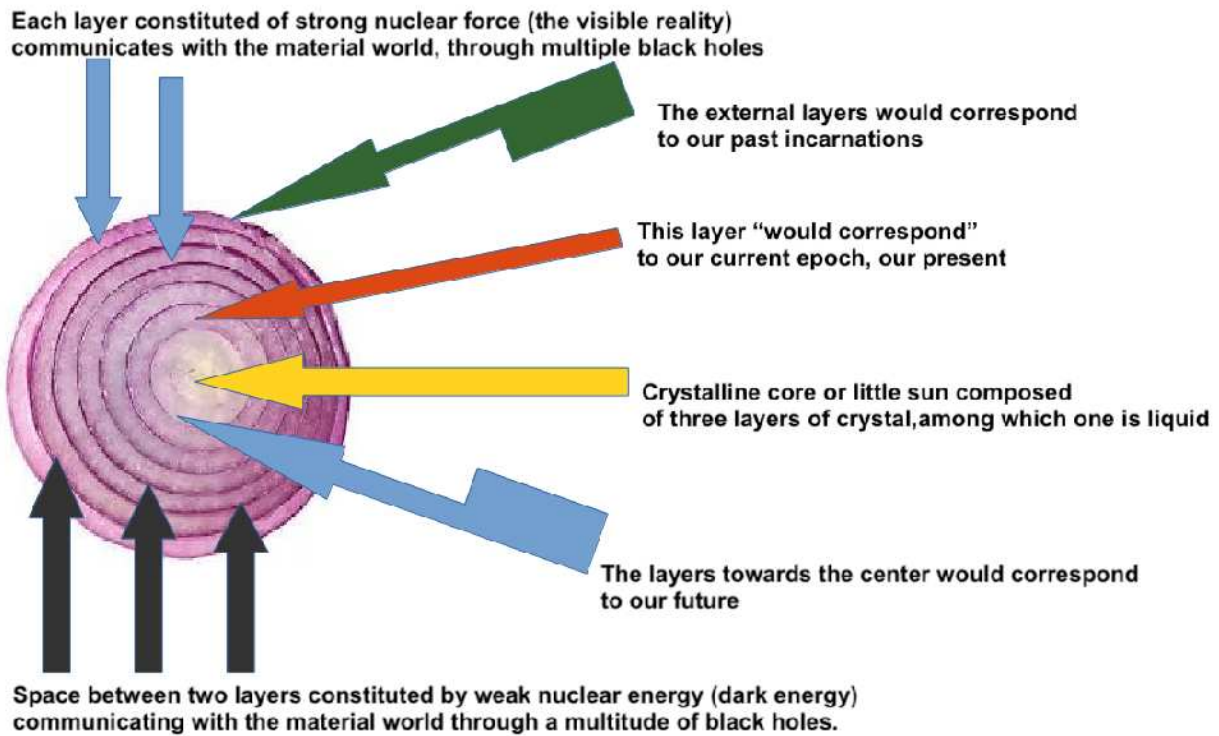

The neighboring cells would be the bubbles of perception of the neighboring cores, other individuals of the same onion layer, of the same epoch, who together "animate" their reality, creating their world.

The thickness of a single onion layer (that's to say the distance between the internal side and the external side of the layer), would represent the space-time travelled by the core in its cell during its existence.

This distance would correspond to the length of the core's life, that's to say to the interval between the birth and the death of an individual.

Diagram of the eternal present constituting the reality of the entity with an "Earth" consciousness

Each layer of the onion would correspond to the earthly space-time, in to which the group of individuals (the cores of the cells), have been incarnated (the time of one human life).

The layers would represent the different epochs of incarnation. The growth of the onion taking shape from the center (the germ) towards the exterior (the onion's skin of protection), these interior layers would also represent the different frequencies of incarnation that have progressively elevated themselves in vibrational frequencies during the growth of the earth. This also would signify that the more we distance ourselves from the center of the onion, the more the individual's longevity of soul is extended.

The 4th layer of the onion could correspond to Atlantis for example and the most external layer to the epoch of the dinosaurs.

Between each cycle (each layer of the onion) a modification of density occurs. And once it has reached the exterior layer (the onion skin), the soul leaves either to experience another onion (dimensions of similar consciousness if it has not assimilated its lessons), or it is transported into another vegetable, another sphere of existence, another universe (dimensions of consciousness in more elevated densities).

In the end, the dinosaurs, the reptilian predators, the Neanderthals, the Cathars...and you today, are still incarnated on the same onion, on planet earth in the timeless present.

This signifies that on earth, the future and the past are part of the same present, a single space-time. The past would be represented by the successive layers of the onion and the future by the center of the onion, the germ (the part that is sometimes green).

Each inhabited planet possesses its own space-time, which according to the frequencies and densities, unfolds completely differently. Soon the human brain will be able to conceive this.

Coming back momentarily to the indications of the “language of the birds” or rather “language of the goslings”. (See Leo Dico) See also <http://eden-saga.com/en/language-of-birds-language-of-goslings.html> for further indications.

In this language the word planet (“planète” in French), can be translated as “plan-it” (it is a “plan” or it is the “plan”). In French “planète” can be read as “plan-être” and can be translated as you are “plan”(“flat”) or “you are the plan”. You are as it were “planified” on a single and same planet. Planetary (in french planétaire = plan + terre) also signifies “earth plane” (“flat earth”), but also “plan is earth” or the “plan ether”, the “plan of the ether”, is it not so?

Each word of this game of “the language of goslings” reveals one or sometimes several significations and it is worth exploring each one. They are merely clues that lead to other clues, eventually resulting in other versions of reality. It is these other versions that may lead to the changing of your beliefs (your present perception of the reality). And it is the aim of the game to change the perception that you have of reality in order that your consciousness can open to other possibilities.

Question to our inner Self:

In the metaphor of the onion, where would the reptilian and Gray frequencies be situated ?

The reptilian frequencies are mostly situated on the more external layers of the onion, your “past”, but stay more or less disseminated through all the layers. The reptiles are your genetic ancestors who exist in lower frequencies of the earth. Some are even parasites originating from another onion (another planet) and have “infected” yours.

The frequencies of the Grays would rather be situated in the germ of the onion, which represents the future. But as you know that the onion re-assembles all the space-times in multiple present moments, the Grays can appear in your faraway past, in your recent, as well as in your present time. Being time travelers, they can appear in all the onion layers!

But remember, most of the reptilian entities have also become inhabitants of the earth. They now live in the same onion as you but are at the end of their predator experience. They will soon either quit the onion to change their experience or continue their progression on following their cycle of incarnation in a human body.

Among these reptilian entities, instead of trusting the cycle of life and allowing themselves to be carried towards quitting the onion, certain have become afraid and have found a way of lingering in the same onion for a much “longer time” than previously intended. They have done this by circumventing the cycles of reincarnation in migrating to the germ and exhausting the resources of the onion.

But because the onion has sensed the presence of parasites, it has started defending itself by becoming more intelligent and increasing its awareness.

How this?

In the same way that the core of the earth increases its speed of rotation to provoke sequences of “anthropocosmic” effects (the climatic, geological political and societal changes provoked by the human consciousness egregor in transmutation), the germ accelerates its growth to expulse the evil, the “rotteness”, that is preying on it. As it were, the consciousness of the “earth” entity has asked for assistance from the creator consciousnesses “of your future”, which in coming to its rescue, have decided to more rapidly augment the resonance frequency of human awareness. In also incarnating themselves into bodies of human hybrids, they are bringing the “entropic” frequency of the planet toward a globally more balanced frequency, which will allow for a new cycle of progress for souls.

That was therefore a rough outline of the cycle of the earth entity.

Questions to our inner Self :

We have started browsing the work of the physicist Giuliana Conforto. Her approach to earthly reality seems to hold water. What is it really about?

Your planet belongs to a solar system (sol-air in the language of the birds, sol = sun in several languages). In reality, the firmament (the star constellations that you see in the sky at night with your 3rd density perception), is merely a holographic projection of energetic points of the earth onto a sort of screen that surrounds it, constituted of fields of atomic particles.

One of these fields is called the belt of Van Allen. These belts constitute, so to speak, the limit of the human field of perception that defines his 3rd density reality.

This implies that if you observe planets like Venus, Sirius, Mars, Jupiter, and Saturn through a traditional telescope, you are only able to see a tiny part of their reality.

But if you made the same observations with an infra-red or ultra-violet telescope, you would already discover other frequency spectrums that constitute other realities of these same planets.

Like the earth they are also constituted of multiple layers, of which only one is visible to you (the one that corresponds with your perception of reality). So even through a telescope or with the most highly perfected instruments that exist, these planets would only appear to you as 1st density worlds (mineral worlds),.. For the entities that populate them have a resonance frequency that is invisible and imperceptible to human consciousness, as intelligent as humans may be.

The ancient cultures already possessed a more realistic vision of the cosmos than that of modern cosmology. Most of these traditions drew their knowledge, not from the “visible” spectrum of the universe, as does human science through its technology, but on connecting to their inner Self (their Angel, their inner light). This inner light is neither more nor less than what the physicists call dark energy.

As you now know, this dark energy bathes not only the human brain, but lights up his inner eye, this being the pineal gland, man’s inner crystal.

If this inner eye is lit up by Knowledge (dark energy, the divine light), it then becomes a real inner sun, through which all the subjects of true Knowledge come to you. As long as this true light, the dark energy and the vehicle of “universal information” (the Truth), does not light up this eye, your Beingness lives in the darkness and can only perceive one reality, that of the 3rd density illusion.

The awakening of the human and the ascension process towards superior dimensions of consciousness start with the igniting of this light. But it is up to each one to open his shutters in order that this light can light up his inner being. Other possibilities of reality will then be proposed to him. Just as the outer sun lights the outer world, the new information will light up his intellectual world as well as his spiritual world.
